

COUNCIL.

Important Measures Before the Honorable.

THE FIRST-STREET CUT VETOED.

Sunday-closing Petition Presented and Well Supported—Also a Protest from the Saloon Men—Other Businesses.

The adjourned meeting of the City Council was called to order by President Frankenstein at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, with Councilmen Bonelli, Brown, Van Dusen, Summerland, Wirsching, Hamilton and Shafer present.

The City Clerk asked instructions in regard to the return of certified checks of unsuccessful bidders. He stated that the resolution of the Council directing their being held until after the contract was signed by the successful bidder is regarded as a handicap by contractors.

Councilman Wirsching said the intention of the resolution was to have no checks returned until the contract is signed, to save trouble of readvertising.

Councilman Shafer thought it certainly works a hardship on contractors.

Councilman Wirsching said that the intention of the motion was to relieve the City Clerk of the responsibility of handling the checks.

Councilman Shafer said that he agreed with Mr. Wirsching that the check of the successful bidder would not be withdrawn until the contract is signed, but why should an unsuccessful bidder be forced to pay his check for a week or month, or months?

Councilman Van Dusen moved that hereafter the unsuccessful bidders have their checks returned to them as soon as the award is made. Adopted.

CITY ENGINEER'S REPORT.

The City Engineer presented an ordinance of intention to establish the grade of the San Fernando road from Walnut street to the north city boundary. Adopted.

The City Engineer recommended that the police be authorized to spring and Main streets, near Ninth street, be either sidewalked or made into a lawn.

ON MOTION OF COUNCILMAN BONSELL. It was decided to sidewalk it.

The following communication was received from the City Engineer:

"Referring to your resolution passed by your honorable body on the 26th ult., ordering me to pay to the city treasury the interest accruing at the rate of 4% per cent upon all city funds held by me on deposit during the past year, I beg to advise you that I have paid to the city $120,000.00 from May 11 to May 13, 1890. I desire to advise you that immediately after the approval of the ordinance I was served with a restraining order, which prohibited me from making the payment contemplated by said ordinance."

Councilman Wirsching said there was no doubt but that these people had given entertainments by professionals—people who travel and earn a living for a livelihood.

President Frankenstein thought they should pay a license, but perhaps not so much as a regular theater.

On motion of Councilman Wirsching the motion was referred to the Finance Committee.

The Water Overseer reported sales of water for May of $20,000.

The Water Overseer reported as his assistants Thomas Moore, Thomas Lynch, George Mitchell, Eugene A. Contreras and Fred Haskell. Referred to Finance Committee.

The City Attorney requested credit for $500 licenses, collected from saloons, banks, and requested that they hereafter be collected through the regular channel.

Granted, and the City Tax Collector was instructed to enforce the ordinance.

The City Attorney also reported the collection of other small amounts in licenses.

FIRST-STREET CUT VETOED.

Major Hazard returned without approval the ordinance providing for the improvement of First street, with the following message:

To the Honorable Council of the City of Los Angeles: In returning "An ordinance creating an improvement of the city of Los Angeles to change and establish the grade of First street from Broadway to the west city limits," without my approval, I regret that your honorable body should endorse the same, as it will be an expense in the removal of our hills and the wanton destruction of the beautiful homes thereon, which have been the pride of our city, at an enormous expenditure of money, the payment of which will be borne by the city, as well as the expense of the removal of the levee of assessments on the adjoining property, the owners of which disclaim any benefit to be derived therefrom. I speak advisedly, because to my inquiry to the City Attorney he said that it would be done with the overrunning wall, no provision having been made by them in the estimate of cost, they openly declared that they did not intend to construct retaining walls, and the cost of the hill had not been taken into consideration because they were impracticable and would never be built. That being so, the hills must necessarily be removed to a grade with the main street owing to the numerous blocks and express wagons that line the streets. He moved that the City Attorney be requested to draft an ordinance regulating the matter.

Frankenstein asked by what right the people raised the streets in front of their places of business.

The City Attorney said they had no right.

Councilman Van Dusen was granted a leave of absence of twelve days from June 12th, and Health Officer McGowan was granted a leave of absence for twenty days.

PETITIONS.

The following petitions were appropriately referred:

From C. E. Huber, asking for a delay until October 1st for laying a cement sidewalk on Broadway between Hill and Ninth; from J. C. McMenamy, protesting against the acceptance of the cement sidewalk on the west side of Hill street, between Eighth and Ninth, in front of the Angeles Orphans' Home, tendering to the city as part of its sewer system all that sewer from the east line of Hill to Alpine street, being 199 feet; from Eugene Ferguson, asking not to be required to pay a license, but perhaps not so much as a regular theater.

On motion of Councilman Wirsching the motion was referred to the Finance Committee.

Councilman Bonelli was granted a leave of absence of two weeks from June 12th, and Health Officer McGowan was granted a leave of absence for twenty days.

THE FILTHY STREETS.

A communication was received from the Chief of Police in reference to the filthy condition of the streets, especially Main, Spring, First and Second Streets; and the places where horses stand in front of hotels and on public sidewalks. Councilman Wirsching also stated that he had receipts in the shape of evidence, showing that people had rented the streets in front of their places of business to have and express wagons; and that the same day on Main Street, between Fourth and Fifth Streets, between Main and Los Angeles, as they intend to construct brick buildings on their lots in the near future.

The Council adjourned.

Councilman Van Dusen said the streets are in a most filthy condition, with main street owing to the numerous blocks and express wagons that line the streets. He moved that the City Attorney be requested to draft an ordinance regulating the matter.

Frankenstein asked by what right the people raised the streets in front of their places of business.

The City Attorney said they had no right.

Councilman Van Dusen's motion was adopted.

The report of the Park Commission, asking for a credit of $5000, owing to the exhaustion of the park fund, was referred to the Finance Committee.

The appointments of deputies made by the county auditor were approved.

The report of the Sewer Committee, that the bids of J. J. Mahoney and J. S. Mansfield be accepted was adopted.

It is ordered that the electrical fire alarm batteries be removed to the chief's office.

THE SECOND-STREET NUISANCE.

Councilman Brown introduced a resolution to the effect that as there is no prospect of the cable road running on second street, and that as the road is now in a bad condition and a nuisance generally, the City Attorney be requested to take measures to remove the track and vacate the franchise.

Councilman Bonelli said he knew of three propositions for cable cars to be run on second street, and that one of these is a proposition to run a double-track cable road, another is from an electric company, and the other is exact defined, and he thought this proposed action would interfere with these propositions.

President Frankenstein thought that passing a resolution to that effect was impracticable, but would rather increase business.

He moved that the cable road be removed at the expense of the property, and at the expense of the city, and that the same be removed at a traffic grade. If the first row of hills was removed it would tend inevitably to draw the business from its present locality to the foot hills, which would then be full of wrecks, while the cable would then as now have a tendency to hit the hills, and leave property now occupied untenanted. This would not increase business, but would rather increase "business wrecks." The cable road proposed when created must be thought of as something that would be removed at the expense of the property now used for business purposes. A new block does not mean a new business home, but rather another empty store, and the imposition of a tax on the cable road, which it is an example of the justice involved in the prosecution of this work—by the levy of an assessment on Broadway, Spring and Main Streets, business would be lost.

It must be manifest to one who contemplates the ultimate effect of this traffic cut through this range of hills that these people are entirely right in that it will result in the destruction of the business of the first row of hills, because the magnitude of retaining walls, which will be required in this case, are impracticable as well as expensive, for, as much as this canal is cut through the hills, the business there would naturally abandon their homes because of the menace thereto by sliding hillsides and falling banks, and a blocked street, and, in my judgment, the street would be unable to be opened up until the adjoining hills were removed; for who would venture into a succession of hills with large overhanging walls and dark tunnels, nearly half a mile long, with no means of escape, until the other end is reached, and hardly room to turn around therein? This dangerous passage, long narrow and dark, would not be safe, and would be best removed, and to accomplish this work of removing it, a sufficient number of men would be required, during which time this canal would mark the center line of one of the most desolate, forbidding places in the State. Councilmen, spare the hills! Respectfully,

HENRY T. HAZARD, Mayor.

On motion of Councilman Hamilton the vote by which the ordinance was passed was reconsidered.

Councilman Bonelli moved that the ordinance be passed in spite of the veto of the Mayor.

The motion was lost by the following vote: Ayers, Councilman Bonelli, McLain, Shafer, Van Dusen, Wirsching; nays, Councilmen Brown, Hamlin, Summerland and President Frankenstein.

*On motion of Councilman Brown the ordinance providing for a grade of one in ten was rejected.

Councilman Shafer moved to refer the Board of Public Works.

Councilman Hamilton said he was prepared to vote at once on the ordinance.

The motion to refer prevailed.

The Mayor presented a long communication urging the purchase of about forty acres of land for Reservoir No. 4 for park purposes.

Some one who had suffered suggested that he surely would not attend a second one.

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE AND GANDER.

Councilman McLain then proceeded to show the slimy argument on the part of the Illinois Dramatic Association, by saying: "Mme. Marchetti gives entertainments every Tuesday evening, to which admission is charged, and—"

"But that is not under our auspices," said the spokesman.

No, indeed, said Mr. McLain, "it is given in this hall. You get either a personal service or a general service."

SUNDAY CLOSING.

Dr. J. P. Widney addressed the Council on Sunday-closing matter, presenting a monster petition for the closing of the saloons on Sunday, number 11,579 signatures, and urged the adoption of the petition. Dr. Widney said he spoke for the people whose names were on the petition, who represent, not the floating population, but the residents, tax-paying citizens of Los Angeles. They are the descendants of the ancient Sunday. He asked the consideration of the Council for the petition.

Dr. Sinsbaugh spoke in favor of the petition. He considered it a petition to be filed with the legislature, not for prohibition or high license, but for those who think there should be more breathing time on Sunday. There are over two hundred saloons in the city.

Councilman Wirsching said there is also a protest petition, and moved the reference of both to a special committee of three. Adopted.

President Frankenstein appointed as such committee Messrs. Summerland, Wirsching and Shafer.

The Bridge Committee recommended that the City Clerk advertise for bids for repairing the Daily-street bridge. Referred back to the Bridge Committee for an additional time.

A number of recusants from different departments were allowed.

Councilman Van Dusen from the Bridge Committee, and the Bridge Committee does not care to further examine the Daily-street bridge master, and moved the appointment of Councilmen Hamilton, Bonelli and Shafer as a special committee.

The City Assessor asked for two additional deputies, and the City Attorney was directed to draft an ordinance to that effect.

The report of the Finance Committee was read.

The Finance Committee's recommendation to give the Street Superintendent a small additional force of men and teams for street work was adopted. It increases the force from four to six, and the cost from twenty-six to forty-one.

The City Attorney was instructed to draft an amendment ordinance.

Recusants until 9 o'clock.

In the Afternoon.

A resolution was passed to print allowing the City Assessor two additional clerks for 30 days at $83.33 each per month.

A resolution was adopted increasing the street force by 15 men and 6 drivers, and the drivers $1.50 each. This is an increase of $51.00.

The contract of Mr. Griggs to furnish the city with three fire-alarm boxes, at $120 each, was approved, and the Mayor was requested to sign the same.

The City Assessor asked for two additional deputies, and the City Attorney was directed to draft an ordinance to that effect.

CALIFORNIA ON WHEELS is now in Minnesota. Seven hundred thousand persons have viewed the display, and seven thousand miles have been traveled up to date.

ACCORDING TO THE OFFICIAL REPORTS, the number of abandoned farms in Vermont now reaches three thousand. It will take something more than Government loans to cure this evil.

HALF THE TOURISTS booked for passage to Europe this year are said to be clergymen. It is also announced that Rev. Sam Small will be a candidate for the legislature in Georgia. The "preaching business," as they call it in some of the back districts, must be paying, now-a-days.

THE WITHDRAWAL OF GEN. VANDEVER from the field as an aspirant for the Congressional nomination is announced both in private dispatches from him to friends in the city, and through the Associated Press. Gen. Vandever's action is wise. It is well for him and his constituents.

TWO MONSTER PETITIONS on the saloon question were presented to the City Council yesterday, one with nearly twelve thousand signatures, asking that the saloons be closed on Sundays, and one with over six thousand signatures, praying that they be allowed to keep open. The petitions were referred to a special committee, consisting of Councilmen Summerland, Wirsching and Shaefer.

LOS ANGELES parents complain of the excessively long school vacation in this city. Three months is certainly too long to keep the children in idleness. The opposite side of the question—too much work—is furnished in the report of a London physician, who says that, in the cases of three children, aged ten, eleven and twelves years, who died of meningitis, the exciting cause was clearly overwork at school.

THE MARQUIS OF BORAX, the truculent tender of His Excellency, Gov. Waterman, and the swashbuckling editor of that notorious vampire journal and "hoss" paper, the Spirit of the Dimes, is carrying on a campaign all by himself against Col. Markham, the Republican choice for Governor. Mr. Borax and his venomous Pasadena informant, Conger, probably suppose they are to have things all their own way in this campaign. They are mistaken!

PRESIDENT HARRISON is understood to be deeply interested in the action of Congress on the silver question, and to be watching the Senate debate closely. The President's interest in the question is quite comprehensible.

IT IS GENERALLY UNDERSTOOD that he will veto a free coinage bill, and the Democrats, knowing this, are doing their best to help the extreme silver men pass such a bill, so as to cast odium upon the Administration, as the veto of a free coinage bill would undoubtedly cause much dissatisfaction, especially on this coast. The people at large will be satisfied with a less radical silver measure, and it will be hoped that some such compromise bill may be passed at the present session.

MAYOR HAZARD has vetoed the one-in-twenty grade ordinance of intention for the opening of First street. The reasons given by Mr. Hazard for this action in his veto message can only be characterized as illogical and visionary. The wishes of a few wealthy residents on the inner hills, and of some property-holders south of Third street, and of a handful of sultans who have His Honor's ear early and late, appear so far to have triumphed over the desires of the rest of the citizens. Five Councilmen voted to pass the ordinance over the Mayor's veto, and only four—Messrs. Brown, Hamilton, Summerland and Frankenfield—to sustain it, but the majority was insufficient. What next? If we cannot get a one-in-twenty grade, let us try to have the street opened on a grade of one in sixteen, which was originally suggested by the City Engineer. This would be much more satisfactory than the proposed grade of one in ten, which would be far too steep, and would satisfy but few. The one-in-sixteen grade is now probably the best compromise that could be made. The people want a street that they can use after they have paid to have it opened and graded.

A GOOD DEAL OF PREMATURE and incidentally active canvassing to secure the filling of the vacant Police Commissionership is already going on, although the late incumbent, Capt. Knox is only fair under the soil. It would do no harm to the public service, though it might curb distastefully the vaulting ambition of some local Democratic statesmen, if action on the appointment were postponed some days, or even weeks. Mean time let spies, armed with lanterns, be sent out in search of an honest man.

THE SAN DIEGO SUN, in an editorial on the filibustering expedition which didn't filibuster, refers to the "Jail Bird General of Los Angeles." Won't the Sun kindly inform an anxious Los Angeles public who the dignitary is bears such a distinguished title? What's his other name? Is he an unconfirmed general, or just a common thief?

COMMENTING UPON CHIEF JUSTICE FULLER'S dissenting opinion in the Mormon case, the Express says that such action could not help him with the Democrats because "everybody is against the Mormons." If our con-

THE COURTHOUSE BONDS.

On Saturday next an election will be held in this county to vote upon the issuance of $300,000 in bonds for the purpose of completing the courthouse. Some opposition has been developed to these bonds, and, unless the citizens are on the alert, they may be defeated. The objectors appear to make their stand upon the ground of economy, but it is difficult to see where this argument comes in. If the bonds are not voted, the supervisors will levy a special tax, and we shall have to pay the money at once, instead of waiting twenty years, until we are richer and can better afford it.

The facts of the case, as condensed from the official statement, published by the Supervisors, are these: When the courthouse was first contracted for it was to be a two-story structure, but the creation of two additional departments of the Superior Court necessitated the providing of an additional story. The cost of the courthouse, as now planned, will be $500,000, and the cost of furnishing and equipping the same, $50,000. Of these amounts there has already been raised, by the sale of bonds, $200,000. When that indebtedness was incurred it was reasonably supposed that, before any additional sum would be needed, the old courthouse and other county property would be sold, and a sufficient sum realized to complete the construction. It has, however, been found impossible to sell such property to advantage, and it is considered much better now to issue bonds running twenty years, at not over 5 per cent interest, by which time the sale of the county property will undoubtedly realize more than sufficient to pay the bonds.

The contract is let, the courthouse is nearly completed and must be paid for, by tax or by sale of bonds. The question is: Shall the amount needed be raised by direct tax this fall, or shall the Supervisors be authorized to borrow the money at 5 per cent? It is this question which the voters have to answer on Saturday. A little reflection will show that common sense dictates an affirmative vote.

THE STATE DIVISION BUG-A-BOO.

Col. Markham at Washington has emphatically denied that he favors or has favored State division. The division spectre which northern politicians have assiduously labored to raise for selfish purposes appears to be in a fair way to be laid. We recently published a very fair and sensible article from the San Francisco Chronicle on the subject, and note another San Francisco paper, the Call, shows a disposition to admit the truth. That journal, once biased, says now, in an editorial headed, "Let Us Pull Together."

Another Republican Caucus on Silver.

Maj. McKinley Offers a Compromise Which is Accepted.

The Friends of Redemption in Bullion Again Carry Their Point.

A Busy Season at the Pension Bureau—Nominations by the President—The Clayton Contest—Notes.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—[By the Associated Press.] The Republican Representatives went into caucus immediately upon the adjournment of the House this afternoon to consider the silver question. It had been announced in advance by the leaders that the real cause was a conference rather than a caucus. It was suggested that there was no definite proposition before the caucus, so Representative Buchanan submitted a motion that the caucus bill as it stood be withdrawn. Much talk followed and developed a diversity of view.

Representative Walker submitted a proposition, which in effect proposed reference of the bill back to the former caucus committee with instructions to report a bill which will place gold and silver on a parity by allowing the issuance of certificates to an unlimited extent on deposits of either metal at the market value.

Representative Dorsey of Nebraska submitted, as a substitute for the caucus bill, the bill which he proposed to introduce in the House. It provides that any holder of American silver may deposit it in the treasury and receive full legal-tender certificates on the basis of the market price of silver; that sufficient bullion be coined to meet the demand of redemption, and that the national bank note redemption fund shall be covered into the treasury.

Representative Perkins, a monopolist, in a vigorous speech, noted his objections to the bullion-redemption nature of the caucus bill.

Finally Mr. McKinley came to the front with a compromise proposition. He proposed that the Treasury shall purchase $4,500,000 worth of American silver each month; that certificates in payment therefor shall be full legal tender and redeemable in lawful money, and silver bullion may be coined to meet the demand for redemption. It was also provided that when gold and silver reach par there shall be free coinage. It will be the bullion redemption provision of the Caucus Bill and was therefore immediately assailed by several members on that account.

A vote was taken, resulting in its insertion in the McKinley substitute.

When the caucus adjourned there was a good deal of confusion in the minds of members as to whether or not they were bound to support the caucus.

The Committees on Rules decided where the bill shall be brought up in the House.

PAYING PENSIONS.

The Present Year a Remarkable One at the Bureau.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—[By the Associated Press.] It is stated at the Pension Office that the deficiency in the amount of funds in the hands of the different pension agents, which resulted in the announcement by the Indianapolis agent that a large number of pensioners would be compelled to wait until July 1st for payment of their pensions, has been caused by the unusually large number of allowances made by the Pension Office under the present Administration, and particularly since Gen. Raun's term began. The great amount of allowances has been largely in original cases. There have been issued already 7000 more original pensions than were issued during the last fiscal year. The office has yet a month's work before the end of the present fiscal year. The present office's record for the present fiscal year, it is stated, will be far ahead of that of the last fiscal year for many years. Final payments by pension agents will not be completed until June 20th, and those who have not been paid by that time will be compelled to wait only a few days until the appropriation for the next fiscal year becomes available, July 1st.

Eastern Dried-fruit Market.

NEW YORK, June 4.—California raisins are quoted at $2.50 for London layers and $2.15($2.25) for crown. French prunes are quoted at $1.90 cents. California prunes are not quoted. The market for foreign and Pacific Coast dried fruit is very inactive. Concerning prunes the Commercial Bulletin says:

"There is a difference of opinion as to whether California will go ready at 3½¢ cents above French prunes. Apropos of French prunes it may be remarked that foreign packers have studied up the peculiarity of the California prunes, and in the event of the latter commanding prices near those now quoted on coast prunes, or selling at 2½¢ cents premium over French goods, what may come from France in shape to be profitable."

To Celebrate the Fourth.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4.—A committee of two hundred, selected to make arrangements for the Fourth of July, met this evening and declined the proposition to combine with the Admission day celebration, but finally allowed the matter to go to the executive committee. TWO NEW OCCUPATIONS.

Mrs. Fernandez, the First Woman Dramatic Agent.

DRESSING JEWELERS' WINDOWS.

One Woman's Occupation—A Girl's Studio, Designed to Suit the Skin of its Owner—Our Portias.

[COPYRIGHTED, 1890.]

The papers have been making some little stir lately over the announcement that two ladies have gone into business as dramatic agents in London. In point of fact, the first woman scout to reconnoiter this novel business and capture its outposts is not a subject of Queen Victoria, but an everyday American, who opened her office three years ago and is doing today a highly successful business as a dramatic agent in New York city.

She is an interesting person on whom to call just at this season when all the player folk are returning to the "Rialto." Her walls are covered with photographs of actors and actresses, and one makes an exhaustive study of poses and simpers more or less successful and attractive, while a "star," who wants an ingenue for the summer season completes his negotiations. He is pock-marked and mild-mannered, and would hardly capture a maiden's fancy on closer view.

He is talking with a woman who sits at a desk, wherein are more photographs. There is a rug at her feet and files of dramatic papers lie around. There is a waste-basket, but it is small and lined with something soft in pink and blue. The waste-basket and a rocking-chair are the only touches distinctively feminine.

The woman who owns the waste-basket has a very pleasant face, and manner, but she is dressed straight forward. She is inclined to be stout, and, if you are at all given to slang, you set her down in your mind as a "good fellow."

"Well," concludes the star, "the girls both say they can do the part and you say they can, so I guess I'll take the first one, she's the best looking."

There is a woman who is anxious to know if she is going to secure an engagement, and who is coming to her by being told of the manager whom he can't get, and that he will probably come back for her. There is a character actor who asks if there is anything in his line, and laughs when told quite en famille that the agent is not in the menagerie way. There are all sorts and conditions of people, and one has added a good deal to one's knowledge of human nature by the time Mrs. Fernandez is ready to answer a question as to how she came to enter a business followed by no other woman in the world.

Mrs. Fernandez is the mother of Bijou Fernandez, one of the best known of the child actresses and a member of the Daly company. She was herself formerly an actress of some prominence, and after her marriage and retirement from the stage traveled for a year or two with the companies in which her little daughter was born. She has undertaken the task of training children for the stage, leaving managers of the sometimes difficult task of dealing with a horde of mothers, each confident of the gifts of her own particular prodigy. The little Leslie and the too rapidly-growing Russell boy and Gertie Homan and the rest of the sometimes popular but now scoffed at Faunteley had her for their dramatic god-mother.

From managing children Mrs. Fernandez passed to the regular business of a dress shop, and after three years met without considerable opposition. "Everybody," she says, "laughed at me, even my own husband; it is so hard to believe in the possibility of success for a woman in anything absolutely new."

"Managers wouldn't deal with me, for they had no faith in the executive ability of a woman. One manager who was my personal friend said he hoped I might succeed, but he would never give me his business, for he didn't consider it a proper occupation. And a woman didn't register with me, for they said, 'Fernandez? She handles kids doesn't she?' Even when a manager came to me I had no people of any consequence to offer him, and when I knew a good actor or actress likely to suit him was disengaged I had to write in the most humble sort of way, fairly apologizing for offering a contract to a person not on my books. In this way I worked under every sort of disadvantage, and many times I was at the point of giving up the struggle. Daniel Frohman was the only man who stood by me. After he took the Lyceum Theater, if a man applied to him for a part he'd say, 'I don't want anybody at present, but are you registered with Mrs. Fernandez? No? Well, you give her your name, and if I need you I'll send there for you. I always get my people through her.' He gave me all his business, and the fact that he did so became known, and I always ask, 'Who's got an engagement now? he got it, and after I had negotiated a few good contracts they began to say, 'Ah! Fernandez; she must amount to something.'

"It was a hard fight, and I wouldn't advise another woman to undertake it. If I had been wholly dependent on my own exertions, I must have succumbed, but I won, and now I am doing, I think, the largest business of any New York agency."

"How do you account for your final success?"

"My stage experience counted. I was courteous to actors. I could remember in my own days in the profession going up an actor's staircase with my heart in my mouth, a feeling like that of about to be whipped. I thought of the treatment I was sure to receive. The man wouldn't put down his newspaper nor pay the slightest attention. He kept you on the footing of a menservant."

"And how did you conciliate the managers?"

"That was my second point. I had no favorites. Some agents send a manager the actor or actress they like, not the one who is best suited to the part or the company. Now, I have known very few friends whom I should like of all those to sit in such positions, but I have taught myself not to recognize friendship in business."

"Did the women managers encourage you?"

"Practically there aren't any. Oh, yes, I know Miss Ober used to manage the Boston Ideals, and D'Oyley before his wife managed his productions before their marriage, and there have been, first and last, a number of such instances, but just at present, except for Mrs. Kimball, who managed Corinne, there is hardly any."

"Mrs. Fernandez, it may be hard, made money enough last year to buy a pretty place at New Rochelle, joining the colony of two hundred or more stage people who own homes in that suburb. It was an instance of her business sagacity that when Kian & Erianger put up their building, which is practically a manager's exchange, she became the sole owner. She would be to have space at headquarters, and though doubtful whether a woman would find recognition, applied at once for office room, and was preferred before all comers, thus getting a location which of itself went a long way toward making the success of the novel enterprise which has familiarized her name all over the country to the dramatic profession.

THE TIMES IN PASADENA.

The advantages to residents of Pasadena in buying THE TIMES consists in the fact that they may only get in its columns the news of their own city every day, but also the news of Los Angeles, of the State, the Coast, the East and the world.

The paper is served regularly by carrier at an hour-hour every morning, to the residences and business places of citizens, at the same price charged in Los Angeles.

The Times.

BRANCH OFFICE, NO. 264 E. COLORADO ST.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

PRICES in real estate continue to advance. One man cleared $1000 on a small piece of land inside of three weeks.

One lone, unassisted fly in a bedroom in the morning will do more toward making a man get up than all the ringing-bells in the world.

A CONVENTION will be held at San Francisco on September 11th next to effect organization to take charge of California's exhibit at the World's Fair. Each county government will be allowed five delegates, each local organization two representatives, and each newspaper one.

THE result of the school trustees election was the chief topic of conversation on the streets yesterday. General satisfaction was expressed, and a great majority of the citizens uttered the opinion that the right men had been elected, and rejoiced that the schools are to be continued under the same management. If there is any purpose on the part of the defeated party to refuse acceptance of the result, it has not developed itself.

THE Philadelphia Traction Company has posted in its street cars rules against passengers spitting on the floor, and requires the conductors to enforce this rule. That would be a good rule to follow in Pasadena, only our cars are not supplied with conductors to enforce it. It is to be hoped that some men will soon learn that it is as impolite to squirt tobacco juice over the floor of a street car as it is to spit on the parlor carpet.

THE Swiss Federal Council has granted authority to M. Kochlin, the assistant of Eiffel in the erection of the Eiffel tower, to construct a railway to the summit of the Jungfrau Mountain in the Swiss Alps. The top of this mountain is thirteen thousand five hundred feet above the starting point of the proposed railway, so that the adventure will be beset with difficulties from the beginning of the work. All this in staid and poky Switzerland, while California capitalists, with all their boasted progressiveness, are hemming and hawing over the construction of a road to Wilson's Peak, less than half the altitude of the Jungfrau. There has been plenty of talk; now let the work begin.

SOUTH DAKOTA has as frisky and novel a climate as can be found anywhere on this broad land, the motto being "Eighteen-eighty-eighty-a heavy wind comes up at noon." The sky was overcast with dark clouds, and sheet lightning flashed vividly. A little later the wind suddenly became hot, dry, and oppressive, at 2 a.m. the temperature was 88° Fahrenheit, the wind continuing for half an hour or more at a velocity of from thirty-seven to forty miles an hour. The heat was so intense that people could not sleep or remain quiet, and doors and windows had to be closed to keep out the hot air. The barometer at 7 the same morning registered 29.39. And yet some people like to live in Dakota.

THE RAYMOND.

Improvements Delayed by Walter Raymond's illness.

The Raymond Hotel presents an air of melancholy lonesomeness to the street. Mr. and Mrs. Beale and a dozen or more servants are the only occupants of the big house. Some improvements which were contemplated soon after the house closed have been indefinitely delayed on account of the serious illness of Walter Raymond at his home in Boston. He intended coming to the hotel last month and personally superintend the work. An unexpected attack of sickness prevented his plans. At last accounts he was improving, but still Mr. Beale has been informed by letter that as soon as he has sufficiently recovered to stand the trip, that Mr. Raymond will come to Pasadena and remain during the summer at his pride hotel.

Music Rich and Rare.

The musicals to be given this evening at the residence of R. Williams, north of town, will be one of the most delightful events of the kind given here this season. The following programs will be rendered:

UNION PACIFIC NEWS.

A Contradiction of Statements Made in a Utah Paper.

GULF TRAFFIC IMPROBABLE.

Happenings of Interest in Pasadena Yesterday—Real Estate Still Going Higher—A Batch of Brevities.

A citizen who has an eye out for railroad developments told the Times representative yesterday that some of the statements made by Fred Trimmer, a railroad correspondent of the Salt Lake Tribune, in a recent issue of that paper, especially those quoted from the report of Chief Engineer Stanton of the Colorado River expedition, are not based on facts.

The article in question refers to the near approach of the Union Pacific's southern terminus in Nevada to the head of navigation on the Colorado River. Mr. Stanton in his report says that this terminus at Clover Valley is, by close scaling, exactly eighty-eight miles from the mouth of the Rio Virgin. "This is all very true," said the citizen, "but the Tribune correspondent would have his readers believe that the Colorado River is navigable up to the Rio Virgin, which is far from being the true condition of affairs."

"Wyandotte" writes: I have three broods of children, about two years old that were smart and seemingly all right in every way until three days ago, when I noticed some of them acting queerly. Some stretched their necks out and down until their bills were on the ground, and acted as if they were trying to bore their heads into the ground; others would twist their heads from side to side, throw them over back, and sometimes fall over; several have died and others seem weak. What is the matter, and what the remedy?

The matter is large lice or ticks on the top of the head; they bore their heads into the ground; others would twist their heads from side to side, throw them over back, and sometimes fall over; several have died and others seem weak. What is the matter, and what the remedy?

A piece of land on the corner of Villa street and Allen avenue, which sold three weeks ago for $3000, has since been disposed of in sections by the purchaser at an advance of $1000. Pretty fast money-making.

A City Park.

Our citizens have long been crying for a city park. Local Agent Mills of the Cross road is doing all he can to give them what they want. Yesterday Mr. Mills started out among the merchants, whose places of business are in the vicinity of the station, with a subscription paper, and in the course of a few hours he had nearly enough subscribed to transform the vacant piece of ground east of the station into a park of considerable pretensions.

Today he expects to collect the remainder of the amount necessary to carry out his project, which will be the planting of a number of pine trees and palms. The work will be begun at once and additional improvements will follow, which are likely to transform this present eyesore into a thing of beauty.

Many have thought that this valley is too cold for figs. Not so. Here the fig and the vine flourish side by side.

In all parts of the valley the fig grows well. E. B. Carter, of Big Rock Creek, has some fine fig trees. Frank Godde, on his beautiful ranch, southeast of Maynard, has large fig trees bearing abundantly, and a large number of them. John Dahl not only has flourishing fig trees, but some orange trees that came through the cold weather of last winter all right. Last Friday Mrs. E. D. Rand showed us fig trees in their yards that had grown as great a growth as any ever seen in lawns in the United States. I have a few small figs. The great figs in the valley are not yet ripe.
